

C. Travis Arey
Vice President
Senior Project Manager

As Senior Project Manager, Travis tends to lead larger projects and, at the same time, support our project managers and their teams. His excellent interpersonal and communication qualities, combined with his planning and time management skills.

At any given time, Travis is responsible for the overall management direction on a variety multiple construction projects, which all require planning, budgeting, scheduling, organizing, and reporting. He maintains close contact with clients, monitors construction and financial activities to ensure proper project completion. Travis' two decades of experience have given him a high capacity to multi task. Contributing to this is his ability to remain structured and organized under any conditions. He is a natural team player and possesses a deep understanding of plans and specifications and contract language.